Barbara B. Kennelly, Chair

Dear Mr. Chairman/Congressman Obey:

We are contacting you about funding for an important program under the Labor, Health and Human Services and Education Appropriations bill, the geriatric health professions program.

The House version of the fiscal year (FY) 2006 bill removed virtually all spending for Title VII programs funded under the Health Resources and Services Administration, including the geriatrics health professions program. The Senate version of the bill restored $31.5 million in funding for the program. The Conference agreement included the House version, eliminating the important program. Subsequently, the President’s FY 2007 budget did not acknowledge this important program.

In prior years, Congress had demonstrated its strong support for the program through continued and increased appropriations from 2001 through 2005. For FY 2005, Congress appropriated $31.5 million for geriatric health professions.

The geriatric health professions program is financed under the interdisciplinary, community-based linkages section of the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) and currently supports three initiatives. The Geriatric Academic Career Award (GACA) supports the development of newly trained geriatric physicians into academic medicine; the geriatric faculty fellowships are designed to train physicians, dentists, and behavioral and mental health professionals who decide to teach geriatric medicine, dentistry, and psychiatry; and the Geriatric Education Center (GEC) program provides grants to support collaborative arrangements involving several health professions schools and health care facilities to provide multidisciplinary training in geriatrics.

Given the lack of adequately trained health care providers in geriatrics, it is critical that this funding level is restored in order to address one of the most urgent problems facing this country as it ages. Furthermore, the December 2005 White House Conference on Aging ranked increased training in geriatrics among its top ten resolutions. We strongly urge you to reinstate funding for the geriatrics health professions program.

Thank you for your consideration of this matter.

Sincerely,

AARP
